

Have you seen me lately?!

Woodsy Owl has evolved over the years. Since 1997, the new Woodsy Owl has flown over the nation spreading his conservation message "Lend a Hand - Care for the Land." In order to make him more effective in the delivery of his message, we encourage you to be innovative and invite you to dress him according to the occasion. Here you can see some examples. Doesn't he look great!?

Old Woodsy

New Woodsy

Look Up! Here I Come

The National Symbols exhibit will be at the following annual conventions:

- National School Age Care Alliance (NSACA) in Memphis
- National Science Teachers Association (NSTA) in San Diego
- National American Association of Environmental Education (NAAEE) in Boston

Woodsy is restyled to project a fit and active image.

A few minor tweaks in his attire and appearance can greatly enhance Woodsy's appeal and the wearability of his costume.

Here Woodsy adapts to the times with cargo pants and an open shirt.

The Washington Office will provide any new wardrobe pieces that are ultimately approved.

Cargo Pants Woodsy

Canoeing!

Winter Woodsy with snow bike

Woodsy's Dress Code - Dress me for the occasion! With easy additional gear pieces, tools, or instruments, Woodsy's costume can be adapted for the theme of your program or event.

Woodsy Owl Love Connection

A golden rod attractive, single, whimsical, curious, charming, and smart 13 year-old owl is looking for a creative partner to help him Lend a Hand - Care for the Land. My favorite hobbies are spreading conservation messages, encouraging others to be stewards of the land, and helping others understand the natural world around them. For serious stewardship contact my Lend a Hand-Care for the Land Agent.

Let's dance in the street - at the Washington D.C. Fourth of July parade — or anywhere!